Defence is Freud's second topography (structural theory). The subject of the book is the defenses developed by the individual ego in order to confront or avoid the conflicts provoked by the id in its relations with the ego and the superego. Anna Freud approaches psychoanalytic technique and theory, along with defensive formations, from the specific perspective of the observation of the ego through the mental conflicts in which it is ...

A hierarchy of ego mechanisms was devised that ordered defenses along a continuum that reflected the following two dimensions: (1) immaturity-maturity and (2) psychopathology-mental health.

The ego and the mechanisms of defence

Ego defends itself from the anxiety resulting from the threat of the impulse seeking immediate gratification. Anxiety is always associated with the threats to ego either from instinctual drives or outside force and defense mechanism modifies, distorts or renders unconscious the feelings, thoughts, memories that would otherwise provoke anxiety.

[PDF] The Ego and the Mechanisms of Adaptation * | Semantic Scholar The title of this paper is to remind us of two works that are of undisputed importance to the development of psychoanalysis: Anna Freud's The Ego and the Mechanism of Defense (1936) and Heinz Hartmann's Ego Psychology and the Problems of Adaptation (1939).

The Ego and the Mechanisms of Adaptation

Freud never directly applied his defense mechanisms to self-esteem or ego; therefore, what follows is not to be considered to be endorsed by psychodynamic theories. Freud's defense mechanisms will now be applied to pride, ego, and self-esteem. That is, they will each be explained by how they serve to protect the ego from shame and ego pain.
